Johnstown-Monroe Honors Local Veterans

Our district once again provided a well-received and heavily attended series of celebrations in each of our buildings to honor our local military servicemen and women on Veterans Day, Nov. 11. This was the first year J-M has done so since becoming a rare, "Purple Star District" for its strong support of our military families. Videos of each building's celebrations may be viewed by clicking on the following links: JES, JIS, JMS & JHS.

As we approach the holidays, the pace has picked up on all fronts across our school district. On Veterans Day, we again welcomed dozens of men and women who have served in our various branches of the military. Our student athletes have achieved great accomplishments that we will commemorate during the Dec. 18th Board of Education Meeting. This past weekend, our Big Red Band again executed an excellent Varsity Show, which is an eagerly awaited annual tradition in our community. Please enjoy the many other events highlighted in the following pages!

Yearbook Staff Awarded

The JHS Yearbook staff was recently awarded with the "Gold Level" of the Jostens National Yearbook Program of Excellence. Yearbook staffs around the country can work toward this honor, which is earned through a high percentage of student body being included at least three times in the publication, meeting every deadline, and successful sales. This is the second time that the JHS Yearbook staff has received the award in the past three years.

JIS Welcomes Guest Reader Alice Main

Mrs. Alice Main, former educator and principal for 35 years in Johnstown, visited JIS on Oct. 28 to read to some of our 4th grade students. She focused on building background knowledge about autumn, the changes that occur within the season in Ohio, and details of Johnny Appleseed's trail that he followed.

Around Our District

JES Showcases Literacy Instruction

Several Johnstown Elementary students participated in a presentation at the Nov. 10, Regular Session Board of Education Meeting regarding literacy and reading curriculums used at JES.

Helping Our Neighbors

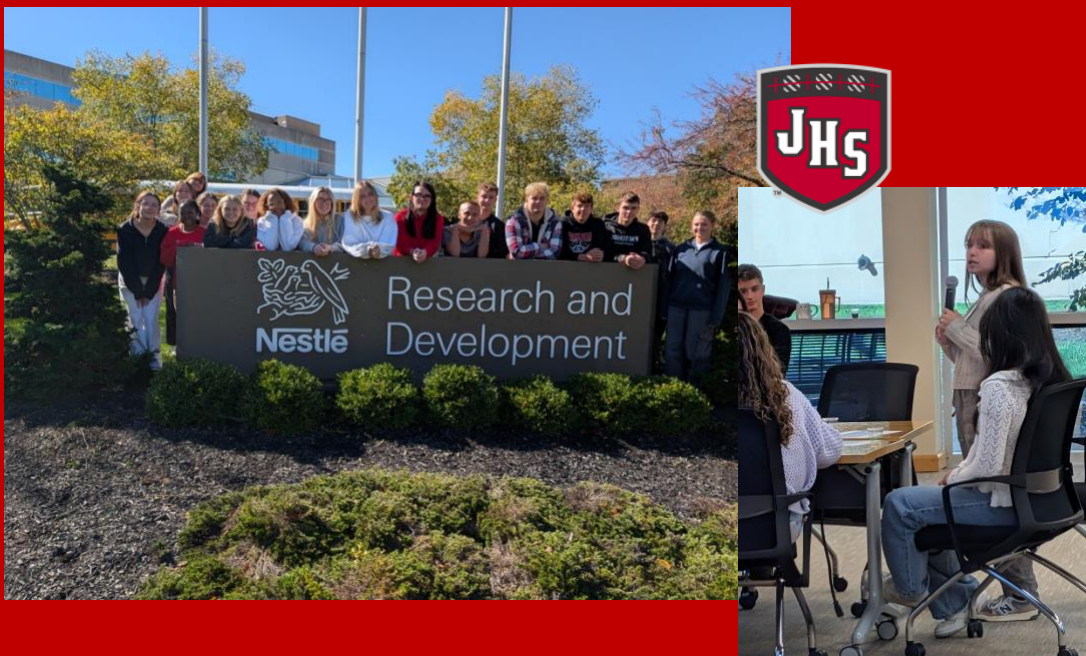

JHS students traveled school building to school building to help collect donated food items on Oct. 24. The students also helped organize and restock the pantry shelves in record time!

Global Scholars Visit Nestles

Year 2 Global Scholars recently attended a global careers event at Nestle Research and Development in Marysville, OH, where the international company focuses on coffee. Participants heard from dozens of Nestle employees about the impact and application of cultural understanding in their international work force. Students also engaged in a sample project development activity where groups concentrated on making decisions with recipe development, resource acquisition, packaging, marketing/sales, shipping and more. The activity replicated the actual work employees at Nestle complete to bring a product to the market. Students learned about the history of Nestle and coffee, and they even sampled some brews to taste the difference in cultural taste preferences.

JMS Halloween STEAM!

In a nod to the holiday, Johnstown Middle School's science teachers worked together to give all JMS students fun, Halloween-themed, "Mad Scientist Day" science experiments! The experiments included density and air pressure chemical reactions, as well as changes of state of matter.
